Have you ever wondered why some websites appear ahead of yours in search results?

The major search engines consider BBB.org to be a ‘high authority’ website. Domain Authority scores range from one to 100, with higher scores corresponding to greater likelihood of ranking.

BBB.org has a Moz Domain Authority ranking of 90, which may help your company’s BBB Business Profile appear higher in Google search results.

Organic search results are listings on search engine results pages that appear because of their relevance to the search terms, as opposed to being advertisements.

The BBB has strong organic rankings for many types of searches. If your business takes advantage of all the great features on your BBB Business Profile, your BBB Business Profile can achieve its own organic rankings.

Every month, millions of consumers visit BBB.org and look for information on a business before making a purchase.

Each search on BBB.org prominently displays listings of all BBB Accredited Businesses and their contact information. Potential customers can search by business name, type of business, location, and filter by Accreditation status. This is important because our studies have found that 8 out of 10 consumers prefer to do business with a company that is BBB Accredited over one that is not (Nielsen 2017).

A highly visible, BBB Accredited Business Seal is extremely helpful for ‘website conversions.’ Your website visitors develop a first impression in a fraction of a second.

After that initial impression, your website has another three seconds to convince visitors to stay and read more. A highly visible BBB seal helps establish credibility and trust immediately, which in turn helps to increase your website’s conversion rate.
